COAST FORESTS LAST BIG SOFT WOOD SUPPLY

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 10.—The forests of the Pacific coast states comprise our last great body of coniferous timber and contain practically half of the remaining sawtimber in the United States, according to a report on timber depletion made to the United States senate by the forest service of the United States department of agriculture. The development of the lumber industry of the region, however, has already progressed far. Within the last year shipments to eastern markets have largely increased, and points formerly supplied by yellow pine have been invaded up to the very boundaries of the yellow-pine-producing territory. Approximately 3 1/2 times as much timber is being taken from the Pacific coast forests as is produced by growth, while for timber of sawtimber size the depletion is nine times the growth.

Has Large Virgin Stands
The commercial forest area of the Pacific coast states, the report says, has been reduced to approximately 57,584,000 acres. "A large percentage of this, about 39,370,000 acres, is in virgin stands." Not all of this, however, is accessible, high-grade timber, for there is a large percentage of relatively inferior and inaccessible areas. "This is an important factor which is usually overlooked in the consideration of the western timber supply." Second-growth of sawtimber size covers about 5,292,000 acres, and smaller second-growth 6,425,000 acres, while non-restocking forests cover 6,500,000 acres.

The present stand of timber is estimated to contain about 1,141,000,000,000 board feet. Of this amount, Oregon has a total stand of nearly 494,000,000,000 board feet, Washington has 334,000,000,000 feet, and California over 313,000,000,000 feet. More than half of the total, or about 686,000,000,000 board feet, occurs in the Douglas fir belt of western Oregon and Washington. Douglas fir comprises approximately 558,000,000,000 feet, and of this 505,000,000,000 feet, or nearly one-fourth of the remaining sawtimber in the United States, is in Washington and Oregon.

Cut-Over Area Large
Already there is a cut-over area of approximately 6,125,000 acres, the report states. Of this amount about two-thirds is in Washington and Oregon, and a very large percentage is west of the Cascades in the Douglas fir belt. The area burned over annually in the three Pacific coast states was found by the forest service to amount to 450,000 acres, and the loss in timber to about 600,000,000 board feet.

The annual drain on the forests of the Pacific coast states is estimated

No Delivery After August 15

Beginning August 15, 1920, the B. P. Lewis store will share its profits with its customers who buy for cash. At the same time this will help to reduce the H. C. L., for you know as well as we do that cash buys goods cheaper than credit. Cash will enable us to purchase our supplies at a much less figure than at present, and we in turn can give our customers the benefit of this saving. This we will do in three ways:

FIRST: We will give a five per cent discount for cash purchases only—purchases must amount to one dollar or more.

SECOND: We will give our customers the benefit of cheaper prices due to our ability to buy our goods from wholesale houses at less cost for cash than credit.

THIRD: No Delivery or Auto Expenses. Regular customers, who buy on the monthly payment plan, will receive a two per cent discount, only in case their bills are paid by the tenth day after they become due. If not paid by the tenth after becoming due, 8% interest will be charged on the monthly purchases.

All bills due on the account books Aug. 15, 1920, and not paid by August 25, 1920, will draw 8% interest from date of purchase to date of settlement. With fairness to all customers, this rule will be applied impartially, without regard to individuals. We trust that everyone affected by this new ruling will see to it that his bills are settled in due time to avoid the added expense of interest.

We heartily solicit your patronage and trust that you will be pleased to co-operate in this money-saving scheme. Thanking you all for the past business, we are

Very truly yours,
